centerpiece of community interest

Traditionally Garrett High School has been the focal point for community activities. In the past much of the community's interest and pride in GHS centered around sports.

Typical of Railroader success in athletics were the 1974 state 4A football championship squad and the 1966 boys' basketball team which ended its regular season as the only undefeated squad in Indiana. This year's girls' softball team won sectional and regional titles before ending a spectacular season as semi-state runners-up. Countless other GHS athletes have distinguished themselves and their school. Community interest in the Railroader athletic program could be labeled the "old story."

Today GHS remains the centerpiece of the community: however, the "old story" has a "new twist."

Community interest and pride still encompass sports but also focus more heavily than in the past on academic achievement and the performing arts.

Two developments caused this shift from the "old story" to the "new twist".

In 1987 Garrett High School entered academic competition for the first time, and each year since its academic teams have been strong contenders in area and state contests. Secondly, in 1990 GHS opened a 489-seat Performing Arts Center.

The 1990-91 and 1989-90 spelling teams placed second and third respectively in the state. The 1988 math squad became state champs, while the 1989 team competed as state finalists.

The New Performing Arts Center, which was dedicated in June 1990, provides drama and music students with adequate space and up-to-date facilities to develop creative abilities.

Even as increased numbers of GHS students have become involved in academic competition, and more students continue to be attracted to band, choir, and theater programs, the 1990-91 school year is the same "old story" in many ways.

However, in the area of community interest, this year takes on an added dimension or "new twist" as parents and other school patrons show just as much support for and involvement in student academic and performing arts pursuits as they do for sports.

Following her manuscript closely, senior Annie Bailey works in the new WordPerfect computer program in third period Typing Production class.

Preparing cookies in Foods I class, seniors Ty Maggert, Chris Lilly, Jeanne Porter, Ivy Custer, and Jamie Hoover work diligently.

The Clayton Teixeira family, whose home is located across from the school complex, display yellow ribbons and an American Flag in support of U.S. troops serving in Operation Desert Storm.

Old Story

As members of the 1966 Football Queen's Court, Ethel Finn Yoder and Debbie Westland, freshmen, hold flowers during their ride on the queen's float.

Competing 25 years ago in a Fourth of July swim meet at the Garrett pool, Mr. Denny Feagler (then a high school junior) comes up for air.

Cheering for the Railroader basketball team, 1966 Pep Club members show their support at the GHS gym formerly located on the corner of Keyser and Franklin streets.

For teacher appreciation month, junior Becky Kelham presents a certificate from Student Council to Mr. Cleo Miller.

Catina Hart

crowned Miss Garrett

Catina Hart, sponsored by Psi Iota Xi Sorority, was crowned Miss Garrett 1990. Catina dressed in red, white, and blue performed a jazz routine to "Lady America" for her talent. She wore a mint green dress with white organza ruffles, pearls, and sequins for the evening gown portion.

Wendy Chervenka, sponsored by Garrett Merchants, was awarded first runner-up honors. Wendy danced to "Wind Beneath My Wings," by Bette Midler. She wore a black full length, fitted dress, gathered at sides and accented at the bottom with two ruffles and a bow.

Sonya Chittenden, sponsored by the Elks, was named swimsuit winner.

Susan Pepple, sponsored by Business and Professional Women, earned the talent award. Dressed in black tights and suit jacket, she sang and danced to "Wise Up" by Amy Grant.

Ivy Custer, sponsored by Tri Kappa Sorority, won evening gown competition. She wore an opalesque dress with a heart neckline.

Preparation for the 29th annual Miss Garrett pageant began in June. "It was a lot of work preparing for the pageant, but I had fun," said Tonya Davis.

A rain-cancelled queen parade didn't dampen the girls' spirits. "Even though the parade was called off, the day still went well. It gave us plenty of time for last minute preparations for our interviews and for the pageant," said Catina. Eleven seniors performed an opening jazz routine to "Jailhouse Rock" and "All Shook Up". "I think our opening number was extraordinary," said Ivy Custer.

DeKalb 4-H Fair week

plays major role in students' lives

Senior Catina Hart was crowned Miss DeKalb County Sept. 27, 1990, at the county fair. Catina also won the swimsuit competition earlier that day.

Catina became the first reigning Miss Garrett since 1981 to be crowned Miss DeKalb. When asked about this accomplishment, Catina said, "I was completely shocked. I walked around in a daze not really realizing I had won both titles. It's a great feeling now that I realize it."

Catina continued, "It was hard to be calm when the talent competition began, and I had no costume. My mom made a mad dash home to get it and once again came through for me just in time!"

Garrett was also represented in the first-ever Mr. DeKalb County contest.

Matt Bechdal of DeKalb Central was crowned Mr. DeKalb. Participating from Garrett was Tim Lemper, who won a plague and $150 as second runner-up. Tim commented, "It was actually fun, although I was nervous."

The contest consisted of an on-stage interview and sportswear and formalwear competitions.

Annually the fair is an exciting time for GHS students. Spending money on rides, playing games of skill, and eating foods of all kinds becomes expensive. However, that's not what the fair is all about; 4-H plays a big part as well.

Mr. Andy Giegold, agriculture teacher, said, "The fair is a grand opportunity for kids to exhibit the results of their projects. Raising and showing livestock gives kids a first experience at producing and marketing. In the end, we hope all 4-Hers have funded their college education with their profit from 10 years of projects."

Junior Mark Thrush added, "It's hard to make up the school work because I miss so many days, but showing livestock at the fair is educational because I learn how to get along better with people."

'Let Good Times Roll'

with football, floats, royalty, fun

After weeks of preparation by high school classes and student council, Homecoming '90 was celebrated Sept. 28.

"Let the good times roll" was the theme for homecoming. BPA and Football Moms had floats in the homecoming parade. "It was a lot of fun, but I got spray paint on my new gym shoes," said junior Julie Gaar.

Along with the floats, the class cars were decorated with many tissue flowers and a ton of spray paint. After all the preparation of the cars, the class of '92 won best decorated car for the second year in a row.

During the halftime activities of Garrett-Lakeland varsity football game, the homecoming candidates made their procession. Seniors Phil Lemper and Ivy Custer were crowned king and queen. "It was neat to be homecoming king, but my mind was mostly on the game," said Phil

This was the first year that football players were eligible to be nominated as candidates. Phil was crowned king, but because he was playing in the game, Tim Lemper was his stand in. "I think I had the most fun because I wasn't worried about winning or losing," stated Tim.

Homecoming began with spirit week to get people in the mood to go to the game. It consisted of college day, sunglasses and button day, boxer short day, maroon and blue day, and injury day.

The reigning queen and king Tonya Lampe and Phil Haynes presented a crown and engraved homecoming bracelet to Ivy while Phil received a bracelet.

The loss to Lakeland was the only thing that marred the night.

Sharing of parts
allows more to perform

Screams are heard as the Creature comes closer to Frau Frankenstein. He reaches her just as her screams die out and she falls to the floor. He touches her hand as the curtain falls and the audience applauds.

This scene is one of three viewed by students at the teaser Nov. 8. Performances of Frankenstein were Nov. 9, 10, and 11.

Because of the large number of girls trying out for the four female parts, double casting was used to give more of them an opportunity to be in the play.

Mrs. Linda Walls, director, stated, "Frankenstein went well in most areas of production. We had a few difficulties with the new light and sound systems, but everything was worked out by show time.

Hilary Smith, junior, said, "It was good for being a school play. You could tell a lot of work went into the production."

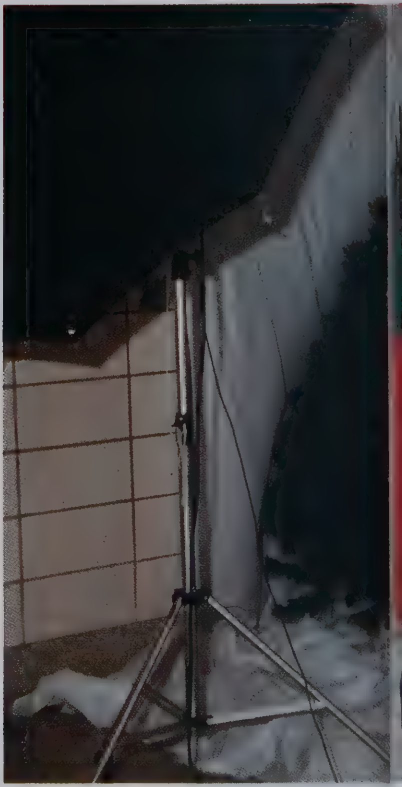
Morrison crowned

Victorian Christmas semi-formal queen



While teddy bears, a fireplace, and Christmas trees set the "Victorian Christmas" mood, students danced the night away at the Business Professionals semi-formal.

Heather Morrison, senior, was crowned by last year's queen, Michelle Kearns. Other members of the court were seniors Wendy Chervenka and Tonya Davis. When asked how she felt when her name was announced, Heather said, "Stunned. I didn't expect it. It was fun and exciting."

Door prizes were handed out to students by ticket numbers chosen by Michelle. Winners were juniors Emilie Binz and Kara Brinkerhoff, sophomore Brian Bock, and freshman Glinda Slone.

Pictures were taken by Barrie Fleetwood of Pictures Plus. Couples were seated in a sleigh decorated with bags of gifts and pine trees.

Entrance decorations were green with white snowflakes and silver streamers, and tables were lined with red and held candles as the centerpieces. Punch and cookies were served as refreshments

Escorts for queen candidates were sophomore Mike Tullis, and juniors Matt Reinoehl and Shane Sobieski. Music for the dance was provided by Chalice.

Said Barbara Jones, sophomore, "The best part of semi-formal was getting to see my friends and spending time with them."

As pink, red and white decorated the Paul Bateman gym, Homecoming '91 was celebrated Feb. 8.

Students participated in spirit week Feb. 4-8 to show support for the team. Dress up days included college day, summer day, hat, pin, and sunglasses day, and maroon and blue day.

During halftime of the game against Leo, homecoming candidates walked through a tunnel composed of the pom squad and the freshman cheerleaders.

Honors went to seniors Karalee Slabaugh and Shane Custer as they were crowned king and queen during the ceremonies. Karalee said, "I couldn't believe that I won. I didn't think I had a chance." She also added, "I would like to thank everyone who nominated and voted for me."

The court watched the end of the game while sitting on stools near a background decorated to carry out the theme "Straight from the Heart."

More than 300 students crowded into Ober cafeteria for the dance sponsored by Student Council. The Killer Bee, 106.3, supplied the music and gave away T-shirts to winners of dance-offs. Winners were senior Rob Smith, sophomores Jim Klein and Adam Sattison, and 1990 graduate Kirby Shafer.

Working, dating, cruising

most popular weekend activities

It's Friday. The 3:05 bell rings, and GHS students file out of school to prepare for the weekend ahead. Some will get ready to go to work while others go off to dress for dates.

Making money for college, cars, and clothes is a big concern to almost all high school students. Therefore many must take on part-time jobs during school.

Does working interfere with schoolwork? "Sometimes I don't have enough time after I get off work to finish my homework," said junior Emily Hollinger, who works at Dairy Queen.

Sonya Chittenden, senior, said, "I try to study at work when business slows down, but that really doesn't give me enough time." Sonya works at Lance's Super Value.

Working doesn't leave much time for a student's social life. "I don't have much time to go out on the weekends because I have to work," said Jon Kruger, junior. "Many times my friends and I don't have the same nights off so we never get to go out together," he added. Jon is employed at McDonalds of Auburn.

Sophomore Barbara Jones, who also works at McDonalds, said, "Since McDonalds is a major hangout, I get to see people when I work, but it's not the same as going out. I try to work during the week and just during the day on weekends to leave time to go out."

Other students spend their weekends differently.

"Ryan (Craft) and I normally go out to eat and see a movie on our dates," said junior Lori Daniel.

"I spend my weekends cruising at Auburn unless there is a dance or a party," commented junior Mark Thrush.

Whether GHS kids are cruising, dating or working, weekends are a great way to forget about school and have fun.

Cast of 80 makes Oliver

Largest production at GHS in years

With a cast of more than 80, Oliver was one of the largest musical productions at GHS in recent years. Another aspect that added to the musical's uniqueness was the use of sixth grade students to portray orphans and pickpockets.

Rehearsals for Oliver began Jan. 21 and lasted until performances April 5 and 6.

Cost of the musical was cut drastically, according to director Mrs. Rebekah Tremaine. Many parents made their children's costumes. Bedsheets for orphans' costumes, benches, tables, bridges, and coffins were donated, and parents and cast helped construct the sets.

The cast was headed by eighth grader Chris Conley in the title role. Other principal parts were performed by both experienced and inexperienced high school and junior high actors. (See the cast list on page 21.)

Portraying orphans and pickpockets were seventh graders Geoff McCord, Ryan Hathaway, Dan Borns and 21 elementary students.

Members of the chorus were seniors Kent Jakway and Thad Ford, juniors Becky Kelham and Jen Alt, sophomores Mandi Jones, and Vanessa McNutt, and freshmen Theresa Grotrian, Renee Pierson, Stacy Clark, Amy Priest, Jennifer Leer, and Shelly Heiman.

Also in the chorus were eighth graders Christie Stone, Doug Brumbaugh, Staci Williams, Amber Ostman, and Kerry Johnson, seventh graders Ali Erwin, Derek Hawkins, Kelly McCarthy, Doug Holbrook and Mark Creager, and eight elementary students.

Students playing minor roles were juniors Jen Alt as the milkmaid and Becky Kelham as the rose seller and eighth graders Kerry Johnson as the knife grinder and Christie Stone as the strawberry seller.

Assisting Mrs. Tremaine were Mrs. Carolyn Blackburn, elementary music teacher, and senior Thad Ford, student director.

—Shellody Bilyeu

After the final performance of Oliver, Mrs. Rebekah Tremaine honors seniors Kevin Robbins, Johann Keppeler, Thad Ford, and Kent Jakway while Mrs. Carolyn Blackburn and freshman Cathy Boles help with flower presentations.

During the curtain call, sophomore Kerry Yingling and junior Carrie Williams take a bow.

While discussing the orphans, Widow Corney (Jonelle Coyer) and Mr. Bumble (Ed Mountz) enjoy a cup of tea.

Junior couple

Crowned prom royalty

With the Fort Wayne Women's Club decorated in black and gold, prom 1991 was celebrated May 11. Theme for the evening was "Love Song" by Tesla.

Juniors Hollitte Greene and Renee Stephens were crowned king and queen by seniors Ivy Custer and Phil Lemper, last year's royal couple. Renee said, "It was exciting just being up there on stage and when my name was announced, I about died. It was a big surprise."

Committees began planning the prom in February. Committee chairpersons were Jay Franks, decorations; Mike Tanner, door prizes; Andy Kelham, entertainment; Amy Ely, food; Kristi Feagler, photographer; Jennifer Whetsell, prom packets; and Kristi Yingling, publicity.

Even though there were doubleheaders in softball and baseball and juniors began decorating at 8 a.m. that day, prom-goers still had plenty of time to get ready. Junior Danielle Myers commented, "I got my hair done at 11 a.m. and then picked up Chris's (Kearns) flower. I fell asleep and then woke up before Chris arrived. It took about two hours for me to get ready."

Entertainment was provided by Rex Kolczynski, a comedian/magician. Music was played by Dance Machine, and Joyce Hollinger prepared the refreshments.

Junior Mark Thrush stated, "The best thing about the prom was being with my friends at the different activities and parties."

Juniors awarded

spirit stick at Little 500

Many students dream of taking a day off from school and having fun in the sun. Little 500 makes that dream come true.

Little 500 was changed this year to focus more on class competition. Events included volleyball, tug-of-war, egg-toss, sack race, pie-eating contest, and the traditional Little 500 race. Juniors won the class competition and were also awarded the spirit stick for the most enthusiasm.

Student Council sponsored the day off as well as the kiss-a-pig contest. Student Council member Catina Hart, senior, received the most votes and ended the day by claiming her kiss.

Unplanned activities which developed were water and shaving cream fights. Many people went back to class at 3 p.m. wet or covered in white foam. Cathy Boles, freshman, commented, "I had a great time even though I was trying to avoid getting hit with water or shaving cream."

Freshman J.J. Case stated, "I liked Little 500 because everyone was in a great mood, and it was great weather for Field Day."

Slabaugh breaks
Campus Life record

Campus Life kept students busy this year with many exciting special events aside from the fun, food, and games at the Wednesday night meetings under the guidance of Campus Life director Ric Reger.

Miss Campus Life, senior Karalee Slabaugh, set a new fundraising record with the help of her manager, freshman Carrie Culler, by raising over $2,400.

Campus Life began the school year with its annual Burger Bash at Eastside Park in the fall. Campus Life then quickly swung into action with the roll-a-thon at the Skatin' Station. This event helped students earn money for Youth for Christ and the Spring Breakaway trip to Florida. The year continued with another fundraiser ski-a-thon in Michigan.

Campus Life introduced a new activity this year. It was the Dating Game with East Noble High School. At this event a lucky young lady from East Noble High School received the chance to ask three Garrett bachelors questions and choose which one she liked best. Garrett's bachelors were seniors Rob Bell and Rob Smith and freshman Lane Andrews. The East Noble lady's choice was bachelor number one Lane Andrews.

Another highlight of Campus Life was the Tri-State University Lock-in.

Weight training program gets Nautilus machine

A major purchase by the Physical Education/Health Department for 1990-91 was a Nautilus machine for the weight room.

Enrollment in weight training classes continued to grow with sophomores, juniors, and seniors all being eligible to enroll. Students may take the class for credit more than one semester. Names of students who hold GHS weightlifting records are posted outside the weight room.

Mr. David Wiant, department chairman, commented, ''Some students think weight training is more work than others while the others work hard to improve their muscle tone.'' Mr. Wiant and Mr. Greg Moe taught weight training.

These classes did regular weightlifting activities Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Activities on Tuesday and Thursday included jumping, stretching, and other conditioning exercises.

P.E. Department used budgeted funds to buy balls, bats, rackets, and nets. An area on the upper balcony of the gymnasium was used for playing field hockey. P.E. classes also went to Feick Park to play tennis and went bowling at the end of the year.

A new sex education program was introduced in freshman health classes. Also in health classes, a guest speaker, Ms. Deb Kitchen, counselor at Northeast Center, led students in role playing the parts of family members and friends who are alcoholics.

Using safety precautions, senior Brian Garn saws lumber for a building trades project.

Community enhances education

Vocational education at Garrett High School is more involved with community projects than might be expected.

Mr. Robert Ewing's vocational drafting class designed the house which next year's building trades class will build. Second-year drafting students with the help of Mrs. Mary Wolf's Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education (ICE) program had the chance to work and learn from experience.

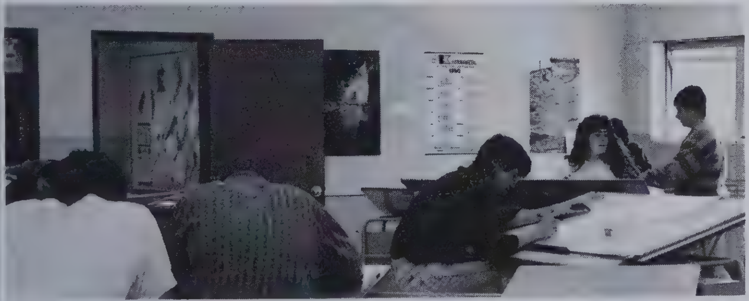
Mr. Art Bruce's vocational building trades classes helped expand the GHS campus this year. These classes built dugouts for the new girls' softball field. They also roofed the new Head Start office and constructed a Head Start classroom. Community projects included remodeling the pro shop at the Garrett Country Club and constructing a room addition for a Garrett homeowner.

Mr. David Andrew's vocational auto mechanics classes received "hands on training" while servicing and repairing vehicles of students and members of the community.

ICE also allowed several seniors to work in their chosen career fields. Some students earned money for college along with gaining on-the-job experience.

Other vocational classes such as OEL (Occupational Education Lab), foods, clothing, metals, agriculture, and woods gave students the opportunity to learn more about possible career choices as well as family living skills.

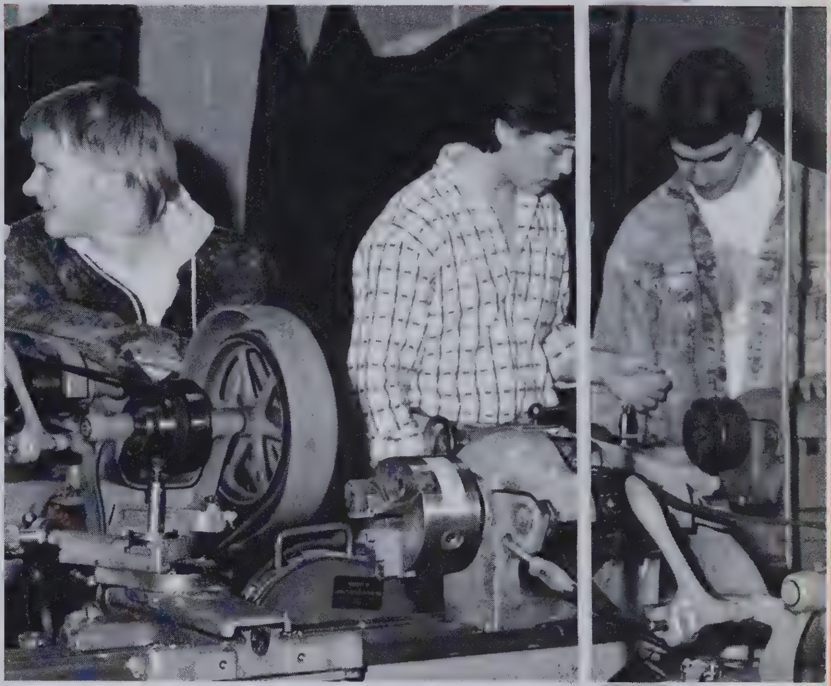
—Carmen Barrientes

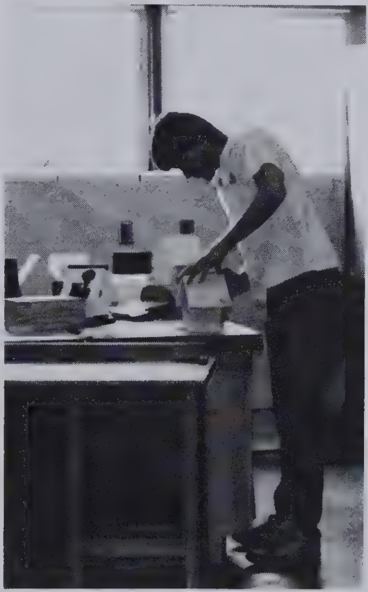


As junior Mike Helmick steadies the ladder, senior Kyle Creager wires a light fixture in a room addition at a private residence.

Working in the center of the drafting classroom, senior Justin Chaney is surrounded by GHS drafting classmates and enrollees from Hamilton.

In metal shop freshman Cork Reinoehl, senior Richard Vanbuskirk, and freshman Jeremy Shroads work on projects.





Silhouetted by sunlight, senior Shannon Rugman puts the finishing touches to a birdhouse in OEL class.

REAP grant spurs
JH reading

Reading Enjoyment and Paperbacks (REAP), a new reading program for junior high students, was made possible at Garrett Junior-Senior High School by a Lilly Foundation grant. After a student reads a book, he/she answers questions about the book on a computer program called Electronic Book Shelf. When the student passes the book quiz, he/she writes a report about the book. "With our reading promotion and new equipment there has been a significant increase in the use of the media center," said Mrs. Nancy Feagler, librarian.

A new copy machine was bought for student use. Copies for school use are made free, but copies for personal use cost five cents. The media center also purchased two new VCR's and two opaque projectors. An IBM compatible computer with a CD ROM was bought too. The CD ROM indexes 80 magazines to help students find information for reports and research papers.

The Guidance Department's three counselors—Ms. Joy Kent, Mr. Fred Mann, and Mrs. Jeanne Young—spend more and more time each year dealing with students' personal problems. This situation results in counselors referring students more frequently to outside agencies. "The guidance department as a whole hopes to help students academically, emotionally and socially," stated Ms. Kent, guidance director.

Social studies teachers worked diligently to choose all of the books that will be used for the next six years. A new activity in Mr. Bob Novy, Mr. Ron Weimer, and Mr. Rocky Pressler's social studies classes was watching CNN Newsroom everyday. "Everybody in the department is trying to keep up to date in the new trends for social studies," said Mr. Pressler, department chairman.

Working on a computer in the media center, eighth graders Chad Baker and Matt Shaw play "Oregon Trail".

Business classes get
2 additions

Business Department at GHS had two new additions. One was Mr. Mike Cranston, new business teacher who succeeded Mr. Larry Stomm, who had been department chairman. Mr. Stomm retired after teaching at Garrett for 25 years. Assuming the department chairperson position was Mrs. Mary Wolf. Also added to the Business Department were six word processing computers equipped with WordPerfect software.

Students in Mr. Cranston's Business Law class had the opportunity to view a real court room divorce trial in DeKalb County Circuit Court. Senior Heather Morrison said that the experience helped her decide to pursue a career in law.

Introduction to Business class toured Lincoln National Bank in Fort Wayne. These students learned how banks function, different services offered, and heard a brief discussion of different accounts and investments.

Mr. Mark Ober's art classes took a field trip to Fort Wayne Museum of Art. In a scholastic art contest sponsored by the News Sentinel and L. S. Ayres Co., three Garrett artists, including eighth grader Kelly Smith and seniors David Quinn and Tom Davis, received honorable mention awards for a pastel drawing, pencil drawing, and ceramic sculpture, respectively.

Among 17 graduating art students were seniors David Sharp, Tom Davis, Steve Barger, and Michelle Delucenay, who plan to enter careers in the art field.

Math staff welcomes two teachers

In 1990-91 the Math Department welcomed two new teachers, Mr. Skip Smeltzer, who taught algebra and general math, and Mrs. Janet Braun, who taught General Math I and II.

Math Department used its budgeted funds to buy rulers, protractors, and other classroom supplies. They also subscribed to Scholastic Math magazine for junior high students.

Math academic team coached by Mr. David Neal, department chairman, completed a challenging year. In invitational competition they placed fifth at Prairie Heights and fifth and third at Garrett. At sectionals they placed first. "I'm pleased with the progress and effort made by the students," coach Neal said.

Science Department purchased new microscopes, slides, and other equipment for physics classes. Mrs. Janet Braun, who taught physics and physical science, was the only new instructor.

Among interesting projects Mrs. Braun planned for her classes was the use of different sizes and colors of paper clips to illustrate the structure of atoms and molecules. In her physics class, students used toothpicks and marshmallows to build the tallest tower possible in a "fun lab." She also asked them to build a bridge of toothpicks. With this project senior Matt Likes went on to enter a contest and won first place for the most weight.

Science academic team won third place in the sectionals after a frustrating season of not placing in prior competitions. Coach Braun commented about her science team members, "I think they put in a lot of time studying right before the sectionals and were determined to place." Obviously she was right.

English team earns
First place

English academic team coached by Mrs. Jean Frohreip, did well this year earning a first place at the Garrett Invitational. Mrs. Frohreip commented, "The team put forth their best effort and did a fine job."

English classes benefitted greatly from the writing lab. Mrs. Bonnie Miles, Language Arts Department chairperson, stated, "The writing lab which opened in April, 1990, has brought about the biggest improvement in language arts instruction in the 16 years I have been teaching at GHS." The adoption of new literature and grammar/composition textbooks for grades 7-12 offered additional plusses for English teachers and their classes.

German classes, taught by Mr. Peter Blaettner, were involved in a variety of activities. German I classes taught German to elementary fourth graders for six weeks. For the fourth year, German students participated in the IPFW foreign language contest where they entered the Knowledge Bowl and exhibited their projects.

Mrs. Shirley Wallace's Spanish students also had their chance to teach elementary students. Her classes taught J.E. Ober third graders how to count to ten, name the primary colors, and state the days of the week in Spanish.

Mrs. Wallace is pleased with her Spanish classes but believes Garrett students could benefit from studying other languages also. She would like to see French or Japanese added to the GHS curriculum.

Improved acoustics aid choirs

Annual Christmas and spring choir concerts of 1990-91 offered the improved acoustics and comfortable seating of the new Performing Arts Center. The high school choir also performed in the second annual Evening of Jazz and Swing and at the Tri Kappa Honor Program.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Rebekah Tremaine, the swing choir added seven new men to their group second semester. After swing choir's performance in the Bellmont Swing Concert Festival, Mrs. Tremaine commented, "The choir learned a lot about where they are and where they need to be."

Several choir members participated in the ISSMA Vocal and Solo Ensemble Contest Jan. 26 at Wayne High School in Fort Wayne. Competing in Group I, the highest possible group, freshman Jessica Januseski received a second place rating on her piano solos. Senior Karalee Slabaugh and junior Carrie Williams each earned firsts for their vocal solos.

In Group II senior Johann Keppeler received a first on his piano solo while sophomores Jen Alt and Holly Kelham received seconds for vocal solos.

In Group III freshman Jennifer Leer, junior Brea Anderson, and sophomore Stacey Leer received firsts for vocal solos. Freshmen Stacey Clark and Jennifer Leer earned a first for their vocal duet as did senior Karalee Slabaugh and sophomore Tammy Sexton.

Marching Band sets new record

Garrett High School bands, under the direction of Mr. Paul Marlow, kept a busy 1990-91 schedule.

Marching Band participated in four parades, placing second at the DeKalb County Fair. In contests Marching Band placed third at the Whitko Invitational, seventh at the Indiana State University Invitational, and third at ISSMA district contest.

In ISSMA Division II competition, Marching Band missed a regional berth by one half point and broke the GHS record with a score of 44.45. Marching Band also played for Amtrak's inaugural trip into Garrett.

Jazz Band competed at ISSMA Jazz Contest at Snider High School while Concert Band entered the ISSMA Concert Contest at West Noble.

Winter and spring concerts were presented by all bands in joint performances in the Performing Arts Center. "The acoustics in the new auditorium are incredible. Also the new band room is really convenient because it's so close to the loading area," stated Mr. Marlow

Choir classes join for concerts

Junior high choirs performed in Christmas and spring concerts. Each choir was composed of two separate classes who performed together at concerts.

Seventh grade choir was made up of one class of 45 students and another class of 55 students. Eighth grade choir consisted of classes of 45 and 38 members respectively.

For the first time, the choirs put on their own Christmas concert with soloists as well as both groups performing. Each choir sang three numbers at the spring concert, which was again combined with the high school.

When asked about the choirs' performance, Mrs. Rebekah Tremaine commented, "The seventh grade did very well for their first year in choir, and the eighth grade improved dramatically. I will miss the eighth grade choir a lot."

Junior high vocal music students traveled to Fort Wayne to attend the ISSMA Vocal and Ensemble Contest Jan. 26 at Wayne High School.

Seventh graders scoring first place ratings for solos were Kelly Andrews, Heather Tittle, Kris Knapp, Dana England, Shannon Carr, Erin Roberts, Stephanie Clark, Kathy Sumner, Dawn DePew, Emily Vorndran, and Doug Holbrook.

Eighth grade soloists placing first were Amber Ostman, Christina Stone, Amber Ritter, Mike Anderson, and Chris Conley. Earning first places for their duet were Angela Whitmore, eighth grade, and Tammy High, seventh grade.

Leadership, determination help with BPA's busy year

For Business Professionals of America, 1990-91 brought a constant swirl of activities from accepting 25 new members to sending junior Emily Hollinger to national convention in Orlando, Florida, as new state BPA president. BPA officers for 1990-91 were Emily Hollinger, president; Matt Reinoehl, vice president; Cristy Davis, secretary; Tammy Smith, treasurer; Nikki Schneider, photographer; and Carrie Williams, historian.

While teddy bears, Christmas trees, and a fireplace helped set the "Victorian Christmas" mood, students had fun all evening at the annual BPA semi-formal Dec. 1.

Decorations in red and shimmering silver carried out a Christmas theme. Barrie Fleetwood of Pictures Plus took pictures of couples, and Mike Jarrett was DJ for the dance. "It was a lot of fun to be there, and the place was decorated beautifully," said junior Trina Hoover.

Seniors nominated as queen candidates were Wendy Chervenka, Tonya Davis, and Heather Morrison. BPA members chose Heather Morrison as queen.

Last year's semi-formal queen, Michelle Kearns, handed out door prizes according to ticket numbers. Winners were juniors Emilie Binz and Kara Brinkerhoff, sophomore Brian Bock, and freshman Glinda Slone.

Fourteen members of BPA entered district competition at Snider High School Jan. 19. Five members who placed in competitions were Carrie Williams, keyboarding and speech; Nikki Schneider, business knowledge; Jennifer Alt, speech; Jenny Miller, legal applications; and Emily Hollinger, speech.

Attending state convention in Indianapolis, BPA members stayed at Hyatt Regency Hotel. No one from Garrett placed, but a promotional display designed by GHS members placed second and went to Orlando, Florida, along with Emily Hollinger. Emily ran for state vice-preseident, but was elected state president. She attended national competition where she represented Indiana.

Fundraisers for BPA were selling M&M's March 8-25 and sponsoring a dance Feb. 16 and Superstars March 6.

Why do you like being in BPA?

It's helping me become a better leader. The business field is what I have chosen for a career, and this organization is the only one that relates to and develops business bound students.--Junior Emily Hollinger

Auto Club gets greater involvement

Art Club enters contest

Art Club members entered a Scholastic Art Contest sponsored by the Fort Wayne News Sentinel. Earning honorable mention were eighth grader Kelly Smith and seniors Tom Davis and David Quinn. Art Club also took a field trip to the Fort Wayne Art Museum where students saw paintings, landscapes, and other types of works.

To raise money Art Club sold bake goods for an academic competition at GHS. Also they airbrushed T-shirts and fake tattoos for Little 500. "The tattoos were really cool, but they washed off so you didn't have to worry about comments from your parents," said junior Emily Hollinger.

Auto Club outdid itself this year. "This was an excellent year because more people were involved," said Mr. Dave Andrews, sponsor. With involvement of more members, field trips, dances, and Little 500 events were extremely successful. Fundraisers for the year were selling hot dogs at an academic meet to team members and their fans, and sponsoring a fall dance. Club members also set up stereo equipment to provide music outdoors for Little 500.

—Maria Molina

What was one of the easiest things to learn in auto class?

I think one of the easiest things I learned was changing and checking the oil in the car. This really helps your car stay in good shape.

Variety of trips keep clubs active

throughout school year

A highlight for Future Farmers of America was a fishing trip to Patoka Lake. "The trip was a lot of fun because we stayed one week and went to a live concert!" stated junior Mark Thrush. The year also included two ski trips to Timber Ridge and a Christmas party during break. Fundraisers included cutting and selling firewood. FFA also participated in livestock judging contests.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes sponsored a food and toy drive before Thanksgiving break. Mr. Tony Oneal's first period computer class was treated to doughnuts and juice for collecting the most items.

Future Homemakers of America were represented at a state meeting in Indianapolis by juniors Becky Strawser and Melinda Davis and sophomore Missy Van Allen. They stayed at the Westin Hotel, participated in proficiency events, and had fun swimming.

FHA also sponsored a dance March 8 and hosted a breakfast for the girls' basketball teams Feb. 14.

NHS service projects

Forty-two students were initiated into National Honor Society Nov. 14 in the Performing Arts Center. Initiate Nikki Millet, junior, said, "I worked hard to get into NHS, and it really feels good to know all the work paid off."

NHS members participated in a variety of service projects including tutoring, writing letters to servicemen in Saudi Arabia, and the annual Head Start Christmas party. Morning and afternoon parties were conducted for the preschoolers. They were served refreshments and presented gifts brought in by NHS members. "I felt stupid in a Santa Claus suit, but after I saw the kids' faces light up, it was all worth it," said senior Shane Custer.

Also some NHS members served as candlebearers for graduation and ushers for Senior Awards Night. Fundraiser for the year was selling Sweethearts and Reese's Pieces.

spirit for all teams

Poms, Railettes, Pep Club increase

"The school came closer together like never before. The spirit was there for everyone," stated junior Erica Bickel. Pom, Railettes, and Pep Club members all worked to increase spirit not only for athletic competitions but also academic competitions. "It was nice to hear the student body cheering the academic teams on as well as the football team." said junior Kristi Yingling.

Pep Club kept busy by sponsoring both football and basketball parent nights. They also decorated the halls for football and basketball homecomings. Fundraisers for the year were sponsoring two dances and selling pennants. Poms began their busy routines during basketball season. They performed only during basketball season due to new tryouts. Poms helped students and parents show pride by selling spirit ribbons at home games. Fundraiser for the year was a bake sale at Caprino's.

Railettes sold refreshments during halftime of all home games to hungry Railroader fans. After basketball season the Railettes enjoyed a traditional evening out as guests of Mr. John Hutton, athletic director. They ate at Don Hall's Guesthouse. "I had a great time with all my friends and will miss them, but I will not miss popcorn. I hate popcorn now," said senior Amanda Short.

—Maria Molina

Do you feel school spirit improved through the support of Railettes, Poms, and Pep Club?

Yes, because you can't develop school spirit unless you have teamwork. You can't achieve the level of spirit you want with just one group. You need various groups supporting each other as a team. The more people involved, the higher spirit will be.—Junior Jonelle Coyer

German Club visits Frankenmuth

Spanish Club has feast

A new activity for German Club was visiting Frankenmuth, Michigan. While there these students enjoyed eating German food and walking five miles to play putt-putt and to look at a big clock. "This clock was amazing because when it struck noon, the bells would ring 33 times and little toy soldiers and mice came out dancing and chasing each other," stated freshman Emily Tarlton.

Tony Grawcock said, "The toys at Bronners' Christmas Shop were fun to play with, and I spent $20 on baseball cards."

Before Christmas German students from Garrett and DeKalb held a German Club Christmas party.

German students taught German to 100 elementary students. Johann Keppeler, an exchange student from Germany, talked to German classes and elementary students about life in Germany. German students also participated in the Foreign Language Festival at IPFW.

Spanish Club went to DeKalb for a dinner. Each member took a Spanish-Mexican dish for everyone to enjoy. "The meal was great!" said sophomore Tara Custer. They also traveled to Fort Wayne for dinner at Chi-Chi's in March.

Spanish Club sold candy, cookies, and cheese to raise money.

How do you plan to use your advanced learning in Spanish later in life?

I plan to go on to college and take more Spanish courses. Maybe someday I'll even travel and get to use it.

What did you like best about serving on Student Council?

Little 500. It's the greatest time of the year. We have to work hard to put it together, but for one day we can just goof off and have fun. It's probably the single biggest event of the school year for the students and council members.—Senior Tim Lemper

At a convocation, Mrs. Rebekah Tremaine receives from junior Becky Kelham flowers and a balloon as Student Choice recipient.

Events, activities, motivate participation

by entire student body

Student Council sponsored many activities to involve the student body. Long weeks of preparation preceded football homecoming which was celebrated Sept. 28.

For teacher appreciation month senior and junior high Student Council gave staff flowers, sundaes, trail mix, and certificates presented at a convocation. Mrs. Rebekah Tremaine, after receiving the Student Choice award at the Nov. 26 convocation, responded, "I was shocked. This changed my attitude a lot! I realize that I do have an effect on the kids I teach. This makes me realize the responsibility I have." Ten other teachers earned mock awards for special qualities shown in the classroom.

Student Council's food drive for the Garrett Christmas Bureau was the most successful in recent years. Students raised more than $950 and donated nearly 6, 000 items from Dec. 3-14. "I was overwhelmed by the generosity of students," stated Mrs. Darlene Bockelman, Student Council advisor.

A popular fundraiser was sponsoring donkey basketball. Four teams of faculty, staff, and business people played two play-off games and then a championship game. "It was a good money-maker for us. I hope to make this an annual event," said president Tim Lemper.

Other fundraisers were selling sweetheart flowers and balloons, a chicken barbecue, and the basketball homecoming dance where the Killer Bee 106 played music.

Court provides lessons

Members of SADD visited the DeKalb County Court House where they observed four court cases dealing with drinking and driving.

"The court cases were very exciting, and the kids learned a lot," said Mrs. Rosemary McConnell, club sponsor along with Mr. Mark Ober.

Before the May 11 prom, SADD displayed a casket and a tombstone in the commons to remind students not to drink and drive. SADD sponsored a dance and sold suckers for Valentine's Day. At Little 500 members of SADD sponsored their annual remote control car race.

During 1990-1991 Drama Club was responsible for the production of the fall play, Frankenstein (the comedy), and the junior high play, All Because of Agatha.

"Being part of Drama Club is a lot of fun and a neat way to express yourself!" stated junior Carmen Barrientes.

Other Drama Club activities were taking a field trip to Manchester College to see a production of Gilbert and Sullivan's musical, HMS Pinafore, sponsoring a spring talent show and dance, and selling pop at Little 500.

"We're still growing and working hard to improve the quality of Drama Club," commented Mrs. Linda Walls, club sponsor.

Do you think taking a speech class is a valuable decision?

I feel if you are interested in broadcasting, politics, or even teaching you should take a speech class. After taking a semester of speech class, I feel less nervous and more comfortable speaking in front of people.

Signal, Aeolian catch magic moments

lived by student body

Aeolian and Signal staffs caught and recorded highlights of the 1990-91 school year while featuring those students who were most active in both routine and special events at GHS. The Signal, brought back to the classroom, was produced by a small staff whose members pulled together to publish 12 exciting issues. "Working on the paper was interesting and fun," stated freshman Erica Yoder.

The Aeolian staff had little difficulty meeting deadlines due to the dedication and work of a few experienced staffers and the assistance of advisor Mrs. Bonnie Miles and student teacher Mrs. Pat Wiant. "I felt yearbook class gave opportunity to use English writing capabilities and skills and gave me the chance to do something for my senior class that I wouldn't usually have been able to do. The hard work was really worth it," said senior Melanie Burlage.

In the end both classes stuck it out and met most deadlines. "Working on both the school newspaper and yearbook takes a lot of my time. I have to miss out on certain school activities because of the extra time I give for the Signal and Aeolian, but it will pay off in the future," stated junior Amanda Steward, editor of both publications.

—Maria Molina

Was journalism what you thought it would be?

Journalism is more work than I thought it would be. I now realize that a yearbook is not just whipped out in a couple of months; it takes time and dedication.—Junior Nikki Schneider

Social life of JH students gains momentum

at February semi-formal

Junior High National Honor Society staged its annual semi-formal in February.

Other activities were having a cake raffle at basketball game and sponsoring an initiation week in which newly-inducted members participated. A fundraiser was selling ice cream at Little 500. "I really enjoyed working with the kids. We had a lot of fun doing all of our activities," said Mrs. Kathy Lemper, sponsor.

Junior High Student Council kept busy despite the loss for several weeks of co-sponsor Mrs. Aletha Bailey due to surgery.

They began the year giving teachers trail mix and carnations for Teacher Appreciation Week. For football homecoming the council sponsored a spirit contest. In this activity junior high students earned coupons for candy bars by wearing the designated attire for each day of the week.

JH council members and co-sponsor Mrs. Jeanne Young attended a leadership workshop at Homestead High School. They also staged a lock-in March 15 for classmates to enjoy. To raise funds they sold Argus posters.

JH Express staffs kept fellow classmates informed by putting together three issues of the junior high newspaper. Academic eighth graders put out issues in December and April. Academic seventh graders produced one issue in May.

Seventh graders had planned to publish two issues like the eighth grade, but unforeseen circumstances kept them from doing so. "After an earlier false start, the kids did a fine job with the May issue. I really enjoyed working on the JH Express for the first time," said Mrs. Aletha Bailey.

. . . New Twist

Seniors

Pumping up GHS students and staff at a basketball pep session, senior Tom Davis gives his prediction on who will win the Hamilton-Garrett game

Dear Diary,

Can you believe that our senior year has come and gone? Looking back, the first day of kindergarten seems as though it happened long, long ago. It is amazing to think how much we all have changed.

It was in first grade that some of us left and went to Saint Joseph's while the rest of us stayed at J.E. Ober.

We all have our own special memories about those years. There was recess with all the kickball and four-square games including lots of do-overs. Another favorite pastime was playing house out by the tires and trees. Then there were the times that we missed recess to sit in the hall as punishment for getting into trouble. During those early school years, we really learned a lot more than the basic subjects. We learned about life and friendship. It was always amazing how we could be in a fight with someone in the morning, and by the afternoon we were the best of friends again.

Then came junior high with all its ups and downs of growing up. That was the time we got our first chances to prove that we were maturing. It was the time for our first dance, our first kiss, and possibly our first serious boyfriend/girlfriend. Even those days seem like they happened long ago.

Next came high school and many of those who had left in first grade to attend St. Joseph's came back to be reunited with their classmates. This was the time to discover and learn about the freedoms and responsibilities of our impending adulthood. Looking back just four years ago, we can see the growth and maturity our class has experienced. But what seems to stick out the most is a flood of fond memories.

As freshmen we got our first opportunity to be part of football homecoming festivities. Little did we dream that first year we would show GHS our abundant creativity and spirit by winning the best decorated car. To top off our freshman year, there was driver's ed. Need we say more?

In our sophomore year, we added excitement not only to Garrett, but to the rest of the world in one particular way. We received our licenses, and, yes, took to the open road.

Then our junior year began. That was the year we really began to consider what we wanted to do with our lives. There were so many opportunities our choices seemed endless. We all had to go somewhere, but for some it meant making a career choice, for others it meant picking that certain college, and still for others it meant getting through the much dreaded SAT's for their first time. It wasn't all serious thoughts and events that filled our lives that junior year. We closed the door behind us that year by staging the first prom in the Bateman gym in years. It was our year to show the seniors and GHS that we, the junior class, had the determination and ability to transform the gloomy gym into a wonderland of magic and surprises. And we did!

Finally our senior year arrived. Didn't it seem like it would never get here? There was the fun of passing out senior pictures and counting off the days 'til graduation on Mrs. Beer's chalkboard. We polished off the final decisions on what we wanted to do with the rest of our lives. We also grew up this year, some of us more than others. It really does seem weird to think that it is all over. However, our memories will keep this special year alive for the rest of our lives.

Senioritis hits GHS

Around the end of April an epidemic of great proportions hits high schools all across the United States. Garrett is no stranger to senioritis, as the epidemic is commonly known.

When members of the GHS class of '91 were asked, "What is your definition of senioritis?" there were some interesting responses.

Heather Morrison: "It is not wanting to go to school at all."

Jeanne Porter: "It is something everyone uses as an excuse when a senior does not do so great."

Nikki Linvill: "It is an attitude and a tradition. It is when you are tired of school and always want to be having a good time."

Sonya Chittenden: "It is when you can forget it all, and you are cool and better than everyone else."

Tonya Davis: "It is not being able to wait until graduation. It is all attitude."

Phil Lemper: "It is when you don't obey the rules anymore, and you screw around a lot."

Julie Malcolm: "It is anything that seniors do that teachers don't agree with or an attitude that students carry that teachers don't agree with."

Thad Ford: "It is probably not caring about anything anymore."

Ivy Custer: "It is thinking that you rule the school."

Jamie Swank: "It is saving everything that has anything to do with our class or our senior year."

Lien Nguyen: "It is being out of control and having lots of fun."

Chris Boles: "It is when you got bored with school, and you get excited about getting out,"

Candi Greene: "It is doing what you want to because you are going to graduate."

Rob Bell: "It is my grades."

Tim Lemper: "It is the eagerness to escape from the structure of school. It is a time to bust loose."

Lisa Dills: "It is when you cannot open a book to study, and your grades start to drop."

Catina Hart: "It is not wanting to come to school, trying to find every excuse not to come, and wanting to leave as soon as you get here."

Nate Vermuelen: "It is wanting to get out so bad that you don't do any of your work."

Jeff Priest: "It is me."

Trying to avoid senioritis, seniors Wade Nodine and John Richie stay busy under the hood of a truck in auto shop.

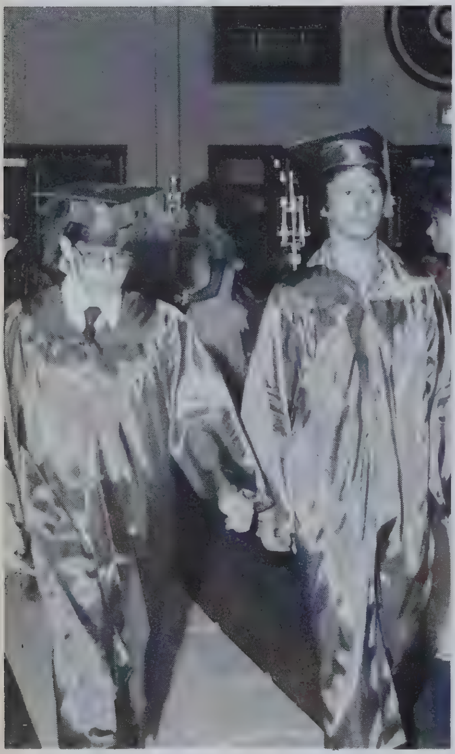
With award presenters listening in the background, graduates Susan Pepple and Ivy Custer sing "Pray for Me" at Awards Night.

Following senior sponsor Mrs. Suzon Baker's introductory remarks, senior Karalee Slabaugh presents her rendition of "Friends".

115 receive diplomas



With determined looks seniors Scott Johnson and Richard Vanbuskirk stride into Bateman gym for graduation.

In Garrett High School's 107th commencement exercises Sunday, June 2, in Paul Bateman gym, 115 graduates received diplomas.

Graduates processed into the gymnasium as the GHS band played "Pomp and Circumstance," followed by "The Star Spangled Banner." The choir sang "Pray for Me," and graduates Ivy Custer and Susan Pepple sang "Friends."

Invocation was presented by senior Wendy Chervenka. Class president Tim Lemper gave the welcome.

Presenting the salutatory address was Jeanne Porter. In one portion of her speech, Jeanne read "A Creed to Live By" by Nancye Sims.

Tim Lemper delivered the valedictory address. In his address he stated, "In almost every valedictory speech I have ever heard, there has been a success story. This is my success story." Tim went on to speak about a classmate, James Bailey, who dreamed of hitting the game-winning shot as the buzzer sounded. James developed cancer in his leg while in the seventh grade and through treatment was able to beat the disease by his eighth grade year.

Tim explained how James worked to gain more playing time his freshman, sophomore, and junior years and how his hard work paid off his senior year when James scored the winning field goal against a county rival. Tim pointed to this familiar success story of a fellow graduate (whom he did not mention by name in his speech) as an example of how hard work, determination, and perserverance can reap rewards in life.

Next Mr. Alan C. Middleton presented the superintendent's address.

Before Supt. Middleton and class sponsors awarded diplomas, graduate Karalee Slabaugh sang "Wind Beneath My Wings."

Benediction was given by senior Julie Malcolm. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the band played "Fanfare and Recessional."

—Amanda Steward

Passing junior candlebearer Kara Brinkerhoff, graduates Jim Gamble and Jamie Hoover head for their seats.

Flanked on the right by stacks of diplomas, salutatorian Jeanne Porter delivers her address.

Experiencing yet another American tradition, exchange students Rattapol Sreemahavange, Soledad Aguilar, and Carlos Ortiz march into commencement exercises.

Speaking on behalf of school board members and other administrators, Principal Roger Weimer opens graduation ceremonies.

Offering the invocation, senior Wendy Chervenka takes her turn at the microphone.

Watching a play from the dug out, assistant coach Alan Hunter, freshmen Amanda Bishop and Danielle Charles, sophomores Gina DePaolo and Holly Kelham, junior Amy Middleton, sophomore Jill Ricketts, and junior manager Becky Kelham wait for a call to be made by the umpire.

Tagging up at first base, senior Sonya Chittenden crosses the plate before the ball is caught.

Ready to run to first base, junior Renee Stephens watches how far her hit goes against regional rival New Haven.

Sectional to Semi-State

Before the semi-state championship game against Mount Vernon, GHS softball players show sportsmanship by applauding as their opponents are introduced.

Loading the bus after the afternoon semi-state win over Huntington North, seniors Julie Malcolm and Sonya Chittenden try to find space for all the equipment.

In afternoon semi-state action, junior Sarah Bigelow winds up for another strike against Huntington North.

Juniors spot eyes first

One of the biggest mysteries in life is "What do you notice first about a guy or a gal?" This is a common question often asked by many guys and girls alike, but nobody ever seemed to have the answer to, until now. Juniors seem to be the experts.

Most guys including Ray Placencia say, "Their eyes and their hair. That really says something about her." Doug Shetterly and many other junior guys prefer "a pretty smile." Of course, there are always some like Jeremy Nodine, who say, "I notice their upper body and then their feet. They can't have big feet." and Bryan Fuller who notices, "shoulders, eyes and then if they're short or not."

Girls in the class of '92 are a little more picky in what they notice first about a guy. The majority of the girls began with the guy's eyes but ended up somewhere else. Amy Middleton commented, "They have to have a good personality, but if they have hair growing out of their ears and nose—they are out." Kristi Feagler and Katrina Andrews seem to agree. They notice "their body and if it's muscular, it really turns me on." Of course, some say they notice how guys dress or look good, but Nikki Schneider commented, "I look at their legs. If they have hairy legs—they're in, but if they don't, I won't look any further."

So if you are a girl and are good-looking, not too tall, and don't have big feet, you're probably a shoo-in for the junior guys. If you are a guy on the other hand, just have neat eyes, a good personality, and plenty of hope because junior girls have a wide variety of "things" they notice first about guys.

Sophs have wild dreams

Imagine yourself walking through the woods and being attacked by a vicious pack of wolves, or eating a banana and turning into a monkey. These are some of the scary, weird, outrageous dreams that sophomores Mike Tullis and Jeremy Dembickie have had. Do you think your scariest dream could outspook Amy Vorndran's dream of being chased by a ghost trying to avenge his death?

Visualize yourself dozing off to sleep late one night after struggling with hours of homework and dreaming of being Ghandi cruising in the Dukes of Hazzard car as James Hall did. How would you react to Gina DePaolo's nightmare of being chased by a little lizard guy from Star Wars trying to pierce her with knives?

In his weirdest dream ever, Jason Koskie was dressed in a three-piece suit with his homework assignments in a briefcase ready to hear one of Mr. Ronn Reeves' long lectures.

Could you imagine having to swim through a pond of poisonous snakes to get to a room with walls that had spikes? It was just such a terrifying gladiator game to save her life that Casey Hoover dreamed about.

Are your weirdest, funniest, or scariest dreams more outrageous than these?

Frosh tell humiliations

All teenagers have had their most embarrassing moments, times when they wish they could disappear and swear up and down that they would never do anything that stupid again. The class of '94 is certainly not exempt. They have also had their fair share of embarrassment and many times sheer humiliation.

When Lane Andrews was in eighth grade, he and his girlfriend were walking through the parking lot and her brother depantsed him.

Erica Yoder said, "I was in my first period class the first day of seventh grade when Amanda Bishop dropped her schedule and asked me to pick it up. When I bent over to pick it up, my desk flipped over and all I could do was lay there stuck as the class roared."

Angel Harmon had quite a moment when she was in Dairy Queen one summer attempting to show her friends her great tan line. As she did this, she accidentally pulled down the top half of her bathing suit.

Classmates are not the only people who can cause their friends to be in embarrassing situations. Parents, other family members, and even pets can cause people to feel such abashment that they would disown them if they could.

"My dad will dance around the room to music on the radio when Kristi and I have our boyfriends over," said Angie Feagler.

Once Steve Woods was home alone and heard a banging noise on his front door and footsteps on the stairs. He thought someone had broken in so he called the police. When the police got to his house, they discovered that it was only his dog.

Whether embarrassment is intentional or self-inflicted, these freshmen all agree that the feeling is just the same. It is awful!

8th graders ease stress

A typical day for most students consists of watching the clock from the time they roll out of bed until they drag their exhausted bodies back to bed, often late at night. In between students rush to catch the bus, rush from class to class, rush to lunch, rush to after school practices, rehearsals, athletic events, or other extra-curricular activities. In many cases homework must be done before calling it quits for the day.

Luckily not all school days are quite so hectic. When an occasional period of relaxation can be squeezed in, eighth graders have favorite ways to keep from getting "stressed out."

Shawn Hunter said, "When I want to relax, I enjoy listening to good music or buying a large pepperoni pizza and renting some good movies." Amy Inman has a different way of relaxing. "I lay down on my waterbed and think of recent occurrences," she explained.

Chris Conley, Nate Parker, and Jennifer Fugate all agreed that "sleeping" is the best way to relax. "I enjoy going boating at the lake in the summer and spending time with my friends," commented Stephanie Price. Jim Burniston added, "When I relax, I either like watching TV or playing Nintendo because I can just sit down in a soft chair and relax."

Making the most of spare time can help ease the pressures of "life in the fast lane." Many eighth graders seem to have developed successful techniques for relaxing.

7th graders dream on

Like other teenagers and preteens, seventh graders sometimes dream about being someone other than themselves.

For instance, Kim Nguyen wishes she was a nurse because she likes to work with people. "I wish I could be a bird so I could fly all over the world and see everything there is to see," stated Shelly Borchelt.

Among the most popular responses were being rich and famous. Erica Middleton said, "I would like to be Queen Elizabeth because she has a lot of money."

Some students would like to contribute to science and other areas of society. "I would like to be Neil Armstrong," stated Erik Halferty, "because he was the first man on the moon."

Another student who wants to help the scientific world is Tina Combs, who stated, "I would like to be a chemist, so I could find a cure for cancer."

Many seventh graders wish they could be someone famous such as a rock star or professional athlete. Among those who dream of fame, Misty Treadwell replied, "I want to be Paula Abdul because she dances and sings better than I do." Amber Sudhoff said, "I want to be Spud Webb because I love playing basketball and I would be famous."

Although the desire to be someone else may range from being a farmer to a nucleophysicist, having such wishes may be the starting point toward choosing a career or actually fulfilling a dream. So dream on, seventh graders.

G-men take NECC titlE

Reserves go unbeaten

Success at Garrett comes in many different forms, but none more exciting than on the gridiron. With a combined record of 33 wins and 7 losses, the Garrett football program was the talk of the town.

Despite an unbeaten performance by the 8-0 junior varsity and the freshman team's 4-3 season, the real story was the varsity squad. The G-men won four of their first five games en route to a 6-4 record. In addition, the team's conference record clinched the co-championship of the NECC.

Ten players—seniors David Sharp, Cory Andrews, Rob Bell, Ty Maggert, Mike McCray, Nate Vermeulen, and Scott Whitkanack and juniors Bryan Fuller, Shane Sobieski, and Ritchie Woods earned All-Conference recognition. Fuller, Sharp, Andrews and Bell also received All-Area honors while head coach Greg Moe was named All-Area Coach of the Year. Senior David Sharp, the Carson Culler Most Valuable Player for the second straight season, served as one of the three team captains with classmates Ty Maggert and Rob Bell.

So what's the secret to the football team's success? "Hard work, dedication in the off-season, teamwork, and a coaching staff that taught us to believe we can do anything," said Bell.

Varsity finishes fourth

Varsity volleyball squad ended a trying season with a 5-6 record for fourth place in the NECC and an 8-17 record overall. "The team was very inexperienced as a varsity team with only four returning letter winners," explained coach Tony Oneal. "The main thing I was looking for in the season was improvement with each match."

Improvement is exactly what happened. The squad broke one school record while two players broke three individual school records. The team scored 15 serving aces against Eastside to establish a new school record. Michele Freed broke the records for most serving aces with nine and for most points served in a match with 18 against Eastside. Lori Daniel shattered the record for most spikes in play with a whopping 47 against Fremont.

On the list of Garrett's top 10 volleyball players, Sarah Bigelow moved to second in serving with 96.5% while Renee Stephens bumped her way to the lead with 615 career assists and 2,771 attempted career assists. Renee was also named to the NECC All-Conference first team and Cherie Solga received NECC All-Conference honorable mention.

Reserves compiled an 11-6 record while the freshmen ended their season undefeated with a 14-0 record and reigned as champions of the Lakeland Invitational.

CC squad finishes 8-6

Boys' varsity cross country runners began in fast gear by winning their first match against Leo. The G-men ran off six wins in seven meets, ending the regular season at 8-6.

Garrett's only home meet was run at a new location, Kruse International on Co. Rd. 11A at I-69. Team captain Matt Likes won the race, setting the first record for the course at 16:15.

Garrett's young team boasted only two seniors, Matt Likes and Chris Lilly, the squad's second and fifth runners. Top runner was sophomore Jamie Weller, who earned first team All-Conference honors.

When asked about the prospect of having 11 returning runners next year, coach Bob Novy said, "It will take hard work because our sectional is third toughest in the state."

Girls' cross country squad ran a season with no wins. Of the team's five runners, four were new to the cross country scene.

Coach Jim Slain's wrestling team enjoyed success in both the regular season and sectional. The team won five of seven and six of nine meets during different streaks in the regular season, finishing with a 12-9 record.

Sophomore Chris Lopez set school records for most pins and wins in a 27-8 season. Sophomore Phil Geeting was the sectional heavyweight champion. Geeting, Lopez, and senior David Sharp advanced to regionals.

Sharp, who earned NECC honors, was named the Carson Culler Most Valuable Wrestler. Coach Slain announced he will not coach next year in order to spend time with his family.

"I think the biggest in was beating Whitko, the efending regional champs nd Final Four team this ear, 70-67," said head oach Dave Carrington. The -men also beat DeKalb at eKalb for the first time since 972. Senior James Bailey ade the game-winning ot with three seconds on the clock.

Home is where the heart is, and the G-men had plenty of heart at home. Despite a 3-8 road record, the varsity squad sported a 7-3 record at home. Carrington attributed much of his team's success to off-court intangibles and "a renewed sense of eagerness and enthusiasm from the kids." Senior tri-captains Tom Davis, Nate Vermeulen, and James Bailey led the team in scoring, while junior point guard Ritchie Woods took on the ball handling duties.

First-year coach Dan Feagler's junior varsity squad fell victim to hometown referees, losing to Lakeland and ending their season with a record of 8-12. A shot after the buzzer was waved off and then counted by the referees, giving the Lakers a 46-45 win.

Freshman basketball team finished 7-11. Lane Andrews and Chad Harshman provided a one-two punch for Garrett in the scoring column. The freshmen were coached by Doug Klopfenstein.

Varsity coach resigns

Reserves win tourney

"I always enjoyed the overtime games. The extreme excitement of the close score, making quick decisions to outmaneuver the opponent, and watching athletes on both teams performing under pressure," said head coach Rocky Pressler. The squad's NECC record was 1-4. Their win came in a 48-46 double overtime game against Fairfield. "A 1-17 record is definitely not what we strive for, but records aren't everything. The players did the best that they were capable of doing," commented coach Pressler.

Seniors Julie Malcolm, Jeanne Porter, and manager Lisa Dills will be lost to graduation. Junior Lori Daniel and freshman Jessica Januseski led the team in scoring and rebounding respectively.

After 15 years of coaching, Pressler turned in his resignation. He coached the eighth grade for the first ten years and the freshmen for the first four years of the program. "The three most talented teams were the 1980, 1981, and 1984 teams. Naturally, the most memorable moment came when the 1981 team won the Fort Wayne Regional," recalled coach Pressler.

"The girls' junior varsity basketball team finished the season with a respectable mark of 12 victories and 6 defeats. Three losses were by three points or less," stated reserve coach Tim Burton. Katrina Galligher led the reserves in points, steals, and assists while Amy Vorndran was the top rebounder.

The reserve team won the Central Noble tourney. "These girls did a fine job. Garrett beat Hamilton in the first game. In the championship game they defeated Fairfield 31-30 in three overtimes," said coach Tim Burton. Galligher, Michelle Cook, Pam Hofferman, and Michelle Hoover dressed both varsity and reserve.

A successful boys' varsity track season was led by seniors David Sharp, Nate Vermeulen, Matt Likes, Rob Bell, and Johann Keppeler.

"What few seniors we had provided strong leadership for the rest of the team. The bulk of our points came from the seniors and sophomores," said varsity boys' track coach Joe Mahnesmith.

Sharp, in his first year out for the team, placed first at the Central Noble Invitational in the 300m low hurdles.

Junior Chris Kearns, Carson Culler MVP winner, won the high jump at the CN Invitational.

A 400m relay team consisting of junior Bryan Fuller, and sophomores Wade Staley, Rob Woodward, and Adam Sattison proved victorious throughout the season. The team placed first at the conference meet. They tied the existing Invitational record (45.4 sec).

Sophomore Cindy Chervenka won the Carson Culler most valuable player award for girls' track.

The girls' track season ended with a 0-9 record. A small number of girls made up the track team, making it harder for the girls to compete as a team.

Railroader golf squad under the direction of Mr. Cleo Miller ended the season with a 6-10 record.

Jeff Weaver received the Carson Culler award for the third year in a row.

Baseball squad struggles

While compiling a 25-3 season record, GHS girls' softball squad won the NECC title, the DeKalb sectional, the Garrett regional, and made it to the final game of the Columbia City semi-state by defeating Huntington North 10-0. Railroaders fell to Mount Vernon 2-1 in an evenly-matched semi-state championship battle.

Senior Julie Malcolm stated, "There will never be another team like this year's. It was a great year to end my senior year."

Softball senior tri-captains were Sonya Chittenden, Julie Malcolm, and Jeanne Porter. Carson Culler MVP award went to Jeanne Porter with a batting average of .392 including four home-runs.

Leading hitter was sophomore Amy Vorndran with a .419 average. Others who hit above .350 were Amy Freed, Renee Stephens, and Michele Freed.

Junior pitchers Sarah Bigelow and Lori Daniel turned in outstanding performances with respective records of 16-2 and 8-1 combined with earned run averages of 1.17 and 1.47.

Cheerleaders boost spirit

GHS cheerleaders participated in a four-day summer cheerleading camp at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. During this time the girls learned new cheers and competed with other cheerleaders. Overall Garrett did well, bringing home five blue ribbons and two red.

Junior Kara Brinkerhoff commented, "Camp was a lot of fun, and I became closer with the other girls. It was hard work, but it was well worth the time and effort in the end."

Mrs. Becky Blotkamp, high school cheerleading sponsor, stated, "This was the first year that we have had a good season with no arguing and fighting." She went on to say, "This was the best group of girls I have ever worked with."

Senior Catina Hart said farewell to the remaining cheerleaders. Catina said she would miss the fun and all the cheerleaders. She shared some words of encouragement for future cheerleaders: "Have fun, work hard, and make the best of it."

7th grade wins tourney

JH football undefeated

Completing their season as Tri-County champions gave the seventh grade girls' volleyball team an 11-2 overall record.

"At the beginning of the year I never expected the girls to win a tournament, but they worked hard and we ended up winning the whole thing," said coach Chris Wiant.

Seventh graders entered Tri-County competition with an 8-2 record. They defeated DeKalb and Angola and went on to beat Avilla in the final round.

Eighth grade girls' volleyball squad, under the direction of coach Mary Baker, ended the season with a 7-4 record.

"I think our season went well, but I think we could have improved because we weren't that aggressive," said player Kelly Smith.

The eighth graders lost to DeKalb in the first round of Tri-County tournament action.

Seventh and eighth grade football teams each compiled undefeated seasons.

Seventh grade boys under the instruction of Mr. Jed Feagler, Mr. Nick York, and Mr. Jim Brown, earned a 7-0 record.

Eighth grade boys' squad acquired a 8-0 record.

"The key to their success might have been the fact that they were a group of smart athletes," commented coach Chris DePew.

7th grade girls end 12-2

Completing a 7-7 season under the direction of coaches Mike Cranston and Ken Cutler, seventh grade boys' basketball team had a successful season.

"I won't forget when we beat Fremont 50-7. As far as the team goes, we played pretty good defense and had a good offensive plan," said player Tim Blotkamp.

Grant Surfus finished the season with 261 points. Following Surfus was Anthony Scheurich with 46 points.

Eighth grade boys' basketball team earned a 9-6 record.

Leading the team with 268 points and 99 rebounds was Brent Burniston. Brad Runion completed the season with 170 points and led in assists with 53.

Seventh grade girls' basketball squad, according to coach Alan Middleton, "completed the season with a sparkling 12-2 record and was the winner of the Prairie Heights Invitational tournament."

Emily Vorndran led the team with 128 points; Dawn DePew followed with 97.

Eighth grade girls' basketball squad ended the season with a 6-10 record.

Leading the team in total points for the year was Carolyn Weller with 162.

Entering Tri-County tournament action with a 4-13 record, the eighth graders defeated Avilla 48-7 and Kendallville 29-22, but lost to DeKalb 32-18.

Junior high boys' track squad finished the season with a 5-3 record.

A highlight of the season was a new junior high record set by eighth grader Brent Burniston. He excelled in the long jump with an 18' 7 ½" effort. The 400m relay team consisting of Shawn Hunter, Jack Traster, Scott Lung, and Tim Smith also set a new junior high record with a time of 49.2. The relay team also placed first in the conference.

Eighth grader Kyle Helbert placed first in the conference meet in the 110 low hurdles.

JH wrestling squad compiled a 2-6-1 record.

Eighth grader Kerry Johnson turned in a perfect 12-0 performance. Seventh grader Trevor Staley finished close behind with a 10-2 record.

In girls' junior high track action, eighth grader Hannah Entwisle broke the school record at the Tri-County meet in the 800m run. The record was 2:34; Entwisle ran 2:30.1.

Carolyn Weller placed second at the Tri-County meet in the 200m run.

"The girls worked hard throughout the season. We all had a lot of fun," said junior high girls' track coach Chris Wiant.

No, it isn't Ringo Starr! It's Superintendent Alan Middleton "drumming it up" during in-service festivities.

Facility improvements continue

Garrett-Keyser-Butler school board members and administrators constantly strive to improve facilities and educational programs for students and staff.

In 1990-1991 for the first time convocations, plays and other programs were conducted in the new Performing Arts Center, and band and elementary music classes met in new classrooms.

Work on the girls' softball diamond was finished in time for the 1991 season. A new auxiliary gym provided ample space for elementary gym classes and was also used for junior high sports practices and games. Also to improve the quality of sports facilities, the roof on Paul Bateman gym was repaired.

New additions to the school system included a Head Start classroom constructed by the building trades class, a central office on East Warfield Street, and a Head Start office on South Second Street

Improving the outward appearance of the school, new lettering was added to the Performing Arts Center, J. E. Ober Elementary School, and the central office. Renovation of the elementary office areas was completed. A large workroom in the high school was remodeled to provide an office for the athletic director's secretary and a new in-school suspension room.

To increase health and safety for students, a school nurse was hired and two school buses were purchased to ease overcrowding.

All of these changes provided a more comfortable environment for learning and school-related activities.

Drivers tell horror stories

"Cruising along in an automobile, hanging three fingers on the wheel, feeling great to be alive . . ." That's what driving is all about! But remember the trauma of learning how to drive?

Each year brave 15-year-olds risk life and limb in their quest for the all-powerful driver's license. The result is a flood of stories about life on the edge . . .of the driver's seat.

Junior Jonelle Coyer, who became famous overnight, tells of taking junior Ann Closson home one night. As she pulled away, she felt a bump. Jonelle explained, "I didn't stop until I heard Ann yell. "My puppy!" I had run over her dog! I felt so bad, I didn't go to class the next day." For her driving folly, Jonelle was dubbed "Dogslayer" by her friends.

Students are not the only ones who remember hair-raising driver's ed experiences; teachers have their fair share of horror stories, too.

Mr. John Hutton recalled, "The day after a storm, a limb hit the hood of our car, came through the window, and landed in the driver's lap."

Ms. Joy Kent told of a student who never got to drive over 30 mph. Why? Because the student, for no apparent reason, would turn the wheel in the middle of the road.

"A carload of boys passed us and mooned us!" reminisced Mr. Ron Weimer.

While innocently trying to teach some students how to drive a stick shift, Mr. David Carrington sat on the passenger side of the car. The student driving pulled up to a corner and began to turn. Hand over hand he made the turn quite easily. When Mr. Carrington told the student to turn the wheel back, the student's hands locked and they drove straight into a yard with a sign that read, "KEEP OFF THE GRASS!"

These Facts Show Why No Other Portraits Stack Up To Pictures Plus!

Fact #1: The Scene Machine

The Scene Machine is the most exciting high-tech innovation in portrait photography in decades. With it, your Pictures Plus photographer can create almost any background you can imagine. Let us show you more!

Fact #2: Flexible Packages

Pictures Plus won't tie you down to a pre-set combination of copies and enlargements. Instead, we let you pick the assortment which best meets your needs, instead of paying for things you don't want.

Fact #3: Custom Framing

The experts in the Pictures Plus Custom Matting & Framing Shop will make your portrait look its very best. Let us give your photo the perfect final touch!

New twist recommended

Permanently!

Old story . . . new twist. That defines the 1990-91 school year at Garrett High School. Although community interest in sports events remains high, an additional dimension centers on student achievement in academic and creative endeavors. A glance at the above aerial view of the Garrett-Keyser-Butler School complex taken in July, 1991, shows a blend of old and new construction projects which provide GHS students ample facilities to develop not only their athletics skills but their academic and creative talents as well. As this school year ends and a new year approaches, it is the hope of the 1991 Aeolian staff that the "new twist" emphasized in this yearbook becomes a permanent condition.

Time to say thanks . . .

Without the help of the following people, production of this yearbook would not have been possible.

I would like to thank the yearbook staff members who saw this book through to the end with me—juniors Emilie Binz, Maria Molina, and Shellody Bilyeu. I thank Herff Jones yearbook representative Fred Henderson for his helpful ideas throughout the year. I would like to thank Superintendent Alan Middleton for providing the aerial picture of the school complex located on the closing pages. I would like to thank Mrs. Phyllis Thorne for providing old yearbooks used to depict the "old story" throughout this book. Last, but definitely not least, I would like to thank Mrs. Bonnie Miles, Aeolian adviser, for all of the extra time she took from her schedule to help produce this yearbook.
